ALLWORK

(allwork)

Glenn Laumeister, CEO, AllWork

Glenn Laumeister is an experienced technology leader who is currently the CEO of AllWork. He has launched and scaled numerous technology businesses, including the freelancer marketplaces CoachMarket, for executive coaching and corporate training consultants, and Thuzio, a "digital talent agent" for professional athletes. After beginning his career working for General Motors in Germany, Glenn worked at CUC International, Priceline.com, and Idealab. He then co-founded Partsearch/PartStore.com, an eCommerce and enterprise software business for consumer electronics, computer, and appliance replacement parts. He grew Partsearch from an idea to more than $75 million in revenue and won an Inc. 500 award.

About The Company

Allwork provides the only end-to-end solution for the beauty industry to efficiently source, manage and pay the in-store talent they rely on to drive sales at retail. Smart brands and retailers are creating in-store experiences that customers can't get online. This requires putting the right person in the right store at the right time. Our platform helps our clients accomplish that goal. Imagine a brand being able to fill an open position in a store with the same efficiency of calling an Uber. The implications for the retail industry are enormous and extremely timely.

BEAUTY BAKERIE

Cashmere Nicole, CEO/Founder, Beauty Bakerie

A powerful story of resilience and inspiration - Cashmere pours her heart into a unique platform, Beauty Bakerie, to encourage everyone (men and women) to rise up each day and feel both empowered and beautiful. As a young girl, Cashmere watched her mother spend copious amounts of energy preparing for work each morning. By creating a brand that focused on truly long-lasting formulas, Cashmere was able to reach and exceed her goal of reducing the amount of time that we spend applying and maintaining our daily look. During a challenging but successful fight with breast cancer, Cashmere became extremely health conscious and research-driven about the food that entered her body, and the products that she purchased. The quality of the Beauty Bakerie brand is a direct reflection of Cashmere's perseverance and passion for the beauty in each person, each day.

About The Company

Beauty Bakerie presents quality products to support their mission "to be sweet and sweeten the lives of others". Customers are able to savor those sweet moments of life by saving time on their appearance with the Beauty Bakerie smudge-free, low maintenance formulas. This inclusive brand is proud to uplift and inspire the beautiful faces of the skin tones and ethnicities that span over 100 countries. The ability to reach the new millennial market can be a struggle for many cosmetic brands, but Beauty Bakerie has also tapped into this fun-loving demographic, offering a bright appeal from a relatable brand. Upholding their social mission to be 'better not bitter'; Beauty Bakerie motivates everyone to rise above negativity and leave your beautiful mark on this world. The brand brings an unforgettable shopping experience to all customers from its unique online store to its shining new physical location at Westfield's Mission Valley Mall in San Diego. We are excited to watch the endless potential of this phenomenal brand!

Zoe began her career as a strategic consultant specializing in pharmaceutical brand positioning, clinical pipeline development and creative strategy. Zoe has a Masters in Medical Bioethics from the University of Sydney Medical School.

About The Company

Dr Roebuck's is multi-benefit, proprietary skincare built on science, natural ingredients and living your best life. We are Australian made, loved, inspired, lived. Founded by twin sisters and inspired by their physician parents, our formulas are developed for even the most sensitive skin in mind.

Efficacy, effortlessly.

Products that do what they say and make skin feel like it should; without the jammed beauty cabinet or hours long routine. That's the Roebuck's standard.

Time spent living.

We live and do more. We carry a giant, freckled smile on our face, dive into salt water, and eat avo for breakfast, lunch and dinner. We love our makeup free days as much our dolled up nights; it's the Australian way.

Simply transparent.

With nothing to hide, we tell you what is, not what isn't; a few good ingredients in a few good products. No secrets, lies, fillers, or smoke screens.

As Co-Founder and CEO of Scentbird, Inc., Mariya brings a strong vision and clear understanding of the tech and beauty industries to the company. Mariya's background is in Applied Mathematics, Computer Science and Marketing, but her true passion lies in beauty products and fragrance. After relocating to NYC from her native Russia, Mariya started Scentbird, Inc. in 2014 by running "Scent Discovery Soirees" (perfume "tasting" events where guests got tipsy on perfume instead of wine!). With Scentbird, the world of fragrance opens up. Clients have an affordable option to discover and sample new scents without having to spend hundreds of dollars or commit to one single bottle for years. However, the tactile experience of purchasing a new perfume is not lost. Scentbird perfumes are beautifully packaged and simple to use, and the sophisticated white atomizer is nestled in a luxurious velvet pouch. With a platform that is friendly to both the indecisive customer and the fragrance-wearer who knows what she likes, Scentbird is a practical option for every type of personality.
